A Torrance Herald reporter and photographer were the sole beneficiaries of all the above hand waving as the Torrance Rotary Club left aboard the yacht "Chula Mia" last Thursday for a trip to Avalon, Catalina Island. Rotarians Set Sail for Avalon Breakfast Meet Sailing aboard a 75-foot private yacht, the "Chula Mia" last Thursday were approximately 15 members of the Torrance Rotary Club who held a joint meeting Friday with the Avalon Rotary Club on Catalina Island.

"CAPTAIN" JOIN
The delegation made the channel voyage as the guests of Max Felker, owner of the seagoing craft.

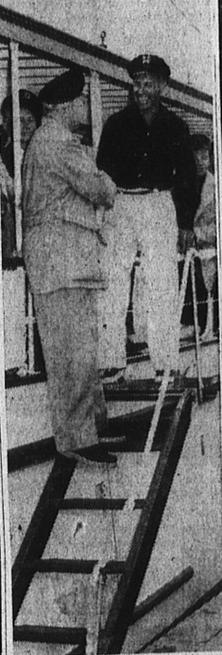

Sailing at 2 p.m. last Thursday the ship carried the local service club members to the island for a breakfast meeting at 8:30 Friday morning with the island club. The members stayed at the Island Villa Thursday night, returning on the Felker ship Friday.

The members left from and returned to the California Yacht Anchorage in San Pedro where the luxurious craft is docked, according to W. T. "Hap" Tillotson, immediate past president of the local club and chairman of the trip.

Addressing the clubs was Oliver Carlson, State Department employee and author of the Voice of America broadcast.

The meeting was a chance for members of both service clubs to renew friendships which began 13 years ago when the Torrance club presented the Avalon club with the Rotary Bell and gavel at the latter club's charter party.

Richardsons Win Legion Dance Finale

Gold and ivory trophies were presented to Mr. and Mrs. Merle Richardson at the Bert S. Crossland American Legion Post Saturday evening as the judges decided they were the dancingest couple in the area.

Winning out over eight other couples in the final round, the Richardsons, who live at 22903 Cabrillo avenue, won out in the final number by a close margin over Mr. and Mrs. Saul Curtis.

Judging the contests during the summer were Nancy Wilkes, Ella Robinson, Leila Stone, J. N. Voorhees, and Robert Kelsey.

Vice Commander Joseph Platt was chairman of the contest. Les Tromier and his orchestra furnished the musical background.

Jaysees Launch Safety Campaign

Donning new shiny aluminum safety helmets, members of the Junior Chamber of Commerce last week launched the first phase of a four-week safety campaign in Torrance by painting their slogan, "Look and Live," on the city's sidewalks.

Under the co-chairmanship of Dwight Eubank and Bob Almond, the Jaysees are going to emphasize the need for safety throughout the entire month of September.

To make the whole campaign official, Mayor Bob Haggard this week issued a proclamation naming September "Safety Month" in Torrance.

The shiny aluminum hats, which are worn extensively by workers in the major industries of Torrance, were chosen as the uniform for the Junior Chamber members during the drive because they are "a fitting symbol of young men at work in Torrance," according to Chairman Almond and Eubank.

"Wherever you see the helmets during the next month, it will be the sign that young men of Torrance are at work on the problem of safety," they said.

Kicking off the campaign last week, Mayor Bob Haggard donned a helmet and daubed at a stencil reading "Don't Jay Walk" which the Jaysees are putting at the exits of all the alleys in downtown Torrance.

A new phase of the campaign will open this week, Eubank
